

Call for Carolina Authors - 2021

INTEREST SUBMISSION DEADLINE: April 12, 2021

About the Call:

North Carolina Humanities and the South Carolina State Library are seeking published authors and poets of works which explore placemaking and identity in the Carolinas to be featured in a limited virtual 'author talk' series through summer 2021.

Author Criteria:

Authors' work must be published within the last year (2020 or 2021) and have connections to North or South Carolina. The author can be connected to the above states by meeting one or more of the following:

- Being born/raised in NC and/or SC
- Currently living in NC or SC
- The setting of their work is NC and/or SC
- Their work being published in either NC or SC

Interested?

If you are interested in submitting your book for consideration, please complete the electronic submission form by April 12, 2021. Please note that completing and submitting this form does not guarantee selection.

About South Carolina State Library: The South Carolina State Library is the primary administrator of federal and state support for the state's libraries. Headquartered in Columbia, SC, the State Library is funded by the state of South Carolina, by the federal government through the Institute of Museum and Library Services, and other sources. The South Carolina State Library also houses ReadSC, South Carolina's affiliate Center for the Book of the Library of Congress. ReadSC works to celebrate South Carolina's unique literary heritage through historical designations, author talks, literary contests, and more. To learn more about ReadSC visit ReadSC.org. To learn more about the South Carolina State Library, visit statelibrary.sc.gov

About North Carolina Humanities: North Carolina Humanities is a statewide nonprofit and affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Through public humanities programs and grant-making, NC Humanities serves to connect North Carolinians with cultural experiences that spur dialogue, deepen human connections, and inspire community. The North Carolina Center for the Book is a collection of North Carolina Humanities' literature and reading programs. Using a variety of formats and initiatives, North Carolina Center for the Book literary programs celebrate and promote the vital importance of books, reading, libraries, and North Carolina's literary heritage. The North Carolina Center for the Book is the state affiliate of the National Center for the Book in the Library of Congress and is supported in part by the State Library of North Carolina. To learn more, visit www.nchumanities.org. Any views, findings, conclusions, opinions, or recommendations expressed

North Carolina
humanities

by our partners and participants do not necessarily represent those of North Carolina Humanities or the National Endowment for the Humanities.